Norfolk to Be Null and Void.

The battle between the city of Norfolk and two railway companies for possession of certain water front property will be reviewed by the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals. A writ of error was granted by Judge Keith yesterday in the case of the city of Norfolk against the Southern Railway Company and the Atlantic Coast Line Re'Iroad Company from a decree of the Circuit Court of the city of Norfolk, entered September 16, 1912, in which judgment was given in favor of the defendant railway companies against the city.

The case was an action of ejectment brought by the city of Norfolk against the two railroad companies for possession of certain lands lying on the Elizabeth River, being a portion of a larger tract formerly known as the Fortlands, and later shown on maps of the city as Town Point Lands, which tract the city of Norfolk claims as held in trust for public use. It is designated in old records as a "public landing." and on official maps as "reserved for tobacco warehouses and other public uses."

to the law and evidence.

Hurt While Painting.

Young Parker was engaged in painting signs on the side of freight cars. At the point indicated there are nineateen or twenty tracks separated by a narrow alise or walkway. It was the custom of the sign painters to use a short ladder to reach the point on the side of freight cars on which certain lettering was to be painted. Constant shifting was going on in the yards, and several freight cars were shunted or "kicked" into the track where the young painter was at work. There were no eyewitnesses to the accident, but he was found a few moments later with one foot crushed and taken to William Byrd Hospital, where he died from the effect of his injuries.

From his own statement to hospital internes it appeared that he was crossing between two freight cars, when the accident happened. The presence of fresh paint and an overturned bucket on the sill at one end of a freight car substantiated the belief that the young man was not actually engaged in his work of painting signs on the sides of the track should be paid amounts of painting signs on the sides of the car, but was crossing between two cars when hurt.

The railroad elaims that he was familiar with that class of work and with the yards and the practice of shifting, cars, having been employed shifting, cars, having been employed shifting, cars, having been employed in the scenario of the track should not be discrimination.

the point is thoroughly covered in the general law, both by State and Federal statutes.

The lease conveyed all of the property in that section except a portion conveyed by Mary B. Urquhart to Dawson McCormick, and by him to the Southern Railway Company in 1895.

Mrs. Urquhart held by assignment from Richard Evers Lee, to whom the section was let in June 21, 1797, purporting to be a ninety-nine-year lease, renewable forever. The city contends that that lease was null and void; that the defendants have been only tenants at will, and that such tenancy was terminated when the city gave the defendant companies notice to vacate. The petition for a writ of error was presented by George C. Cabell, city attorney of Norfolk, T. A. William and George A. Frick. Bond in the sum of $500 was filed.

WESTERN LINE IS IN DUTCH AGAIN

Committee.

Meeting To-Morrow to Adjust Difficulty.

The western boundary line of the Council with suitable maps of the amended city, to be considered by that body in connection with the annexation ordinance,

When the committee adjourned at 10:30 o'clock, after two hours of de-bate, the parties to the wrangle agreed that they had accomplished nothing, and that the question of the western boundary had better be left for another meeting, to be held at 5 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Ten minutes before adjourning, the committee took up the map question and settled it.

Too Far West Again.
The western boundary, in a manner most mysterious, and apparently without the knowledge or consent of the committee, has been shifted a block too far west. The shift was discovered when the clerk read the minutes of the last meeting, and the City Engineer displayed the map amended in accordance with the same minutes. Councilman Butler, who was not present at the last previous meeting, declined last night to express an opinion The other four members of the committee in attendance refused to recognize their handlwork in the description of the line as laid down in the record.

At the last previous meeting the owners of Colonial Place asked the committee to shift the western line, which had been placed 150 feet west of Westmoreland Street, fifty feet and four inches still farther west, to include all of Section A of their development. To satisfy this request Councilman Mills moved that the west to the females as they entered the room. So Gilbert, it is said, used the telephone to call up a transfer company to inquire whether his trunk was coming. But it is said he held the catch down and faked the message and that north of Monument Avenue extended, and that north of Monument Avenue the western boundary be placed 150 feet west of and parallel with the nearest north and south street through Monument Avenue Park.

Mills Motion Recorded.
In the absence of the regular clerk, who was in attendance upon the meet ast night.

When the matter was reopened a motion to approve the minutes as read failed of a majority vote. Opposition to their approval was led by Councilman Umlauf, who held that the Mills motion he had voted for at the previous meeting did not contemplate the shifting of the line in Monument Avenue Park as far west as it had been placed. It was the intent of the motion, he thought, that the line in Monument Avenue Park be placed 150 feet west of the nearest inside north and south street. No member of the committee was clear as to the exact language of Captain Mills's motion, algineer was in accordance with the mo-

No One Is Blamed.

A parliamentary battle followed, in which various motions to amend the Mills motion, to amend the minutes, to approve the minutes, to reconsider the line as laid down, and to describe a new western boundary, were made, debated and ruled out or lost. Members of the committee finished by exonerating each other as well as the clerk and acting clerk for any blame in the made acting clerk for any blame in the muddle, which was admitted to be a gen-eral misunderstanding all around, and set to-morrow afternoon to straighten the matter out.

Councilman Jones proposed that the gish or loaded with_acids and impurities to cause breaking down of the tissues.
